Meet our new CEO

We are delighted to announce that Sarah Devaney has officially joined us as the new CEO of Michigan Pet Alliance (MPA).

Sarah comes to us with a wealth of experience and a proven track record of success in project management, data analysis, and policy creation in the field of public education. Sarah also brings an extensive background in animal welfare and advocacy, non-profit management, fundraising, and organizational culture, having served as a wildlife rehabilitator and board member for Friends of Wildlife and Help 4 Wildlife.

Sarah brings passion and a deep commitment to MPA's vision of achieving the best quality of life for Michigan's companion animals, and is eager to meet, collaborate, and learn from each of you. Sarah lives in Saline with her husband and three children, and can be found spending her free time rehabbing neonate opossums and enjoying the company of her four cats.
